Cwm Taf Morgannwg University Health Board launch “Traditional Apprenticeships!”

In celebration of the National Apprenticeship Week which took place between 7-13 February 2022, Cwm Taf Morgannwg University Health Board (CTMUHB) were delighted to announce the launch of “traditional apprenticeships”.

Learning and Development Business Partner for Qualifications within CTMUHB, Rhian Lewis actively works to develop apprenticeship opportunities within the health board by seeing how vacancies can be supported by qualifications and then offered through the role of an apprenticeship.

Talking about apprenticeships, Rhian said: “apprenticeships are just one of a number of strategic recruitment and development approaches to attract, retain and develop our workforce to meet CTMUHB workforce needs. Apprenticeships are an integral pathway in providing opportunities for new and existing employees, of all ages, across CTMUHB to develop the right skills needed to meet our current and future skills needs.”

Rhian continued: “apprenticeships provide the skilled workers that CTMUHB need for the future. Apprentices work alongside experienced employees to gain on the job skills, while getting outside training from an approved college or training provider. Apprentices will earn while they learn and work towards nationally recognised qualifications.”
